Description

Description:

Day-vit Active is a well balanced formulation that offers maximum performance and vitality throughout the day. A unique combination of vitamins, minerals and dl-Methionine, enriched with CoQ10 & pure standardised Panax (Korean) Ginseng to help sustain a feeling of physical and mental energy. A supplement ideally used during periods of extreme stress. It is a balanced multivitamin that provides physical and mental energy to individuals who want to support their body and be more active

Day-vit Active tablets contain a wide range of vitamins, minerals and trace elements at the suggested Recommended Daily Intake to help safeguard your daily nutrient intake and provide the nutritional support that your body needs to cope with the demands of our lives.

- Vitamins are organic substances that are essential in regulating both the metabolic functions within the cells and the processes that release energy from food.
- Vitamin A is an essential nutrient for healthy eyes, skin and a strong immune system.
- Vitamin D helps build and maintain strong bones and healthy teeth.
- Vitamin E and Vitamin C are powerful antioxidants that protect the body from the harmful effects of free radicals and help build a strong immune system.
- B vitamins are important in metabolic activity and energy production.
- May help in red blood cell formation, cell division and amino acid metabolism.
- Minerals are inorganic substances which are important for various metabolic processes in the body.

- Day-vit Active tablets contain the added benefit of other nutrients which are equally important for a healthy body and wellbeing.

Day-vit Active Tablets may be of benefit to:

- People who want to boost their energy
- People leading a stressful life
- People who do not eat a healthy balanced diet
- Students going through their exam period
- People who are on a weight management programme
