Description

Description:

Scientific data now show that the male factor is implicated in about 40% of all conception problems, and new research suggests that both partners should take steps to increase the chance of pregnancy. Fertix is an innovative, science-based supplement designed to optimize male fertility by enhancing sperm development and performance. Fertix combines all ingredients that have been clinically proven to improve sperm count, sperm quality, and sperm motility, and maximize the reproductive ability. Contains vitamins and micronutrients needed to produce an adequate number of healthy sperms, also includes the amino acids L-Carnitine and Acetyl-L-Carnitine, with Co-enzyme Q10, to improve sperm energy production and motility. In addition, Fertix has a very high antioxidant power, which protects sperms from free radical damage and DNA fragmentation. Because it combines all the essential nutrients, Fertix not only gives you optimal fertility, but also improves your overall health.

Use:

Take 1 blue fertix capsule in the morning, after breakfast, with a full cup of water. Take one red Fertix capsule with lunch.
