Description

Description:

Tricovivax is a medicine stimulating hair growth, cutaneous available in the form of solution dosed at 5% (50 mg / ml) of Minoxidil (active substance). The drug when applied topically is a stimulant of the capillary, effective growth in the treatment of androgenetic alopecia (male pattern baldness) and alopecia areata (usually of nervous origin, and commonly known as "naked"), with significant absence of systemic side effects and excellent local tolerance.

Indication:

Treatment of Androgenetic Alopecia (hair loss) and Areata.

Use:

Tricovivax is exclusively topical application on the scalp. The hair and scalp should be dry before application.

Method of application: Apply 1 ml of solution twice daily at 12 hour intervals. Apply the solution in the center of the affected area of the scalp and spread with your fingers to uniform distribution of the drug. Do not use more than 1 ml of solution, regardless of the size of the area to be treated, or apply more than 2 ml of solution per day. Avoid inhaling the medicine and contact with eyes, mucous membranes and excoriated areas of skin, inflamed or injured.
